Such tests are no doubt of equal importance as affecting the safety of the community at large, and are generally dealt with by the boiler insurance companies. As far as the purchaser of a boiler is concerned, the question of paramount importance is that it shall raise steam economically. He may be assured by the insurance company that his boiler is safe. Here, however, the responsibility of the company will cease, unless private arrangements are made at additional cost for systematic tests of the boiler under steam with a view to ascertaining its steam-raising qualities. It is to this equally important side of the question that the author desires to draw the attention of large steam users, feeling, as he does, that the subject is not recognised by them as deeply affecting the profits of their industrial concerns. One has only to seek information amongst those who have set themselves to reduce their expenditure in fuel, to learn how much may be done in this direction. Sometimes improvements may be carried out at very small cost. In some instances the writer has been able to effect an economy of 10 per cent of the heat by the mere regulation of the air passing through the flues. Such a process is not costly. To leave the state of the fires to the care of the fireman is likely to lead...
