Excerpt: . . . Quite the contrary. We look to Bell Brothers salt works on the north side of the Tees--our side--influencing the Tyne chemical industries and bringing them to Middlesbrough. But Middlesbrough has no facilities for exporting; we have. We are close, as you say; and the chemicals, and c, will come for shipment here. Have you any difficulty in obtaining cargoes None whatever. Look at this little map; you will see that the docks lie close to the South Durham coal-field. Indeed, some of the principal shipping collieries are so near that loads can be got down direct two hours after the vessel that wants coal has entered the port. Are you equally as rapid in loading Certainly. There are twenty spouts of the pattern best liked in the district, besides twenty old coal drops for the smaller vessels. We can load steamers at the rate of 250 tons an hour; and I have known ships arrive in dock, receive 1, 000 tons of coal, and depart on the same tide. You have some lines of steamers in connection with these docks, T believe Yes; running to Hamburg, Gothenburg, New York, Boston, and London. The former are worked by the West Hartlepool Steam Navigation Company. The big lines assume great merit for safety, and that is why I should like to say of this company that, though they have been running ships since 1853, they have never yet lost a vessel. What is the population of...
