Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Quarantine Laws and Orders: Bulletin No; 1; July, 1911 The statutes of California contain but two measures governing the Commissioner of Horticulture, namely, the act of 1899, popularly known as the State Quarantine Law, and the act establishing the present State Commission of Horticulture, enacted in 1903. and amended finally June 26, 1911. The objects of the quarantine clauses of both these laws are to prevent the introduction of harmful insects and plant diseases into the State, to provide methods of eradication should they secure a foothold, and to authorize certain agencies to adopt rules and regulations for the enforcement of the quarantine provisions. There seem to be conflicting clauses in these two acts, and their phraseology taken together is somewhat confusing. The act of 1899, for example, provides in section 4 that Any trees, shrubs. found infested with any species of injurious insects not existing in the orchards, vineyards, gardens or farms of California shall be immediately sent out of the State or destroyed at the option of the owner. The act of 1911,...
