AMS Press, United States, 2012. Hardback. Book Condition: New. 19th Revised edition. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. 1650-1850: Ideas, Aesthetics, and Inquiries in the Early Modern Era takes a focused but multidisciplinary approach to the long eighteenth century, the two hundred years during which the writers and artists explored, developed, and represented a complex program of modernization or Enlightenment. Covering a period that begins with the revolutionary thought of Thomas Hobbes and the surprising establishment of a Commonwealth government and that ends with the careers of William Wordsworth and Lord Byron, 1650-1850 publishes essays treating the aesthetic and philosophical side of this period of deep social transformation. This annual includes studies on the literature, philosophy, theology, art, music, architecture, and personalities of the period. It publishes many essays on British topics but also includes studies from various cultures, from Vietnam and Romania to Peru and the arctic. It seeks to discover connections among the various arts and intellectual pursuits and also to provide a venue for specialized studies not suitable for less experimental journals. 1650-1850 always includes fifteen to twenty extended reviews, reviews that examine major scholarly studies and editions in detail and with robust honesty. Contents includes: Beverly Jerold, Dilettante and Amateur: Our Evolving Language Richard Sharp, Aspects of High Churchmanship in Eighteenth-Century England: Charles Wheatley (1686-1742) and the Rational Illustration of the Book of Common Prayer James E. Evans, The Splendour of Our Golden Age : The Duchess of Mazarin and Epicurean Voluptuousness in Late Stuart England Susan Lydon, Savage Europeans and Gentlemanly Savages: Capitalism and Blurred Identity in Robinson Crusoe Keely McCarthy, The Problem of Cultural Reproduction in Gulliver's Travels James E. May, Contemporary Reception and Reputation of Edward Young's Love of Fame Al Coppola, The Secret History of Eliza...
